

Light on the Challenges of Our Time

How to use Sufi principles to face the challenges that arise in everyday experiences

(photo: Aerie Waters)

Come and join Murshida Rabia Perez-Chisti, a Sufi Movement International senior teacher, for a full day seminar at the Temple of Peace in Haiku, Maui

November 26th 2011 from 10am to 4:30pm

$50 for the day (no one turned away)

Please bring something to eat and share for lunch.

Register by sending a message to: anarabia@earthlink.net

"Every thought, every impulse, every wish, every desire comes from the Divine source, and in its accomplishment there is the law of perfection. And in that way a person feels hopeful. But when one thinks, 'What shall I do? What am I to do? How am I to do it? I have not the means; I have not got the resources; I have not got the inspiration to do it; when one is pessimistic about things, one destroys the roots of one's desires, because, by denying one casts away that which could otherwise have been attained. For in recognizing the divine parenthood of god, one becomes conscious of one's divine heritage, and that there is no lack in the divine spirit, and therefore there is no lack in life. It is only a matter of time. If one builds one's hope in the divine, there is an assured fulfillment of it.'" (Hazrat Inayat Khan)